Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 29 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Storm Evert bringing high winds to southwest UK tonight.

This Evening and Tonight:
Early evening rain, heavy at times, in the southwest will spread into many other parts of England and Wales. Also becoming windy in southern coastal areas, especially southwest England and south Wales where gales expected. Drier and clearer further north.

Friday:
Unsettled for many with showers or rain at times but also some sunny spells. Heaviest showers by afternoon over eastern and central England. Windy in the south, especially at first.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Sunshine and showers in the south with the chance of a thunderstorm. Drier and cooler in the north. Temperatures around or just below average with light or moderate winds.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.